

Access to exclusive content and forum posting privileges

We recently learned that our website has been somewhat unclear in explaining the two different levels of ticktockstock.com enrollment.

“Site registration” allows the member to read the forum content that has been posted by others. There is no charge for this level of membership, which only requires filling out the “subscriber enrollment” form.

We at ticktockstock.com take the integrity of our site very seriously. In order to protect our members from false and misleading forum postings, we require that members identify themselves to us in greater detail before being granted posting privileges.

Access to Exclusive Content and Forum Posting Privileges requires a paid subscription. For access to this level of membership, first fill out the subscriber enrollment form. (Most of you will have already done this step.) Then,

1. From the home page, click on the Forum tab.
2. Once at the forum, click on the User CP tab located in the red section (upper left corner)
3. Scroll down the left hand column and click on “Paid subscriptions.”
4. Choose the subscription plan that best meets your needs.
5. When your Paypal registration is complete, your forum posting privileges and access to exclusive content will be enabled.

To those of you who thought that “site registration” was the only option that was available, we apologize for our lack of clarity. We continue to be enthusiastic about the future of Rim Semi and hope that ticktockstock.com exclusive content and forum posting privileges will be of great value to Rim’s shareholders in the exciting months to come.